Introduction to PowerCampus Self-Service

This user guide focuses on how faculty members can use PowerCampus Self-Service to access and update their information. Using a Web browser, faculty members can set up their Course Home Pages, enter students’ grades, define their course activities, and more.

All faculty members will first view the PowerCampus Self-Service Home page, which can be used to access general information for all users. Depending on how your school’s system is set up, the Login window at the left will either display a lock icon or User Name and Password fields.
Taking a Look at the Home Page

The Home Page gives you a first look at the basic design of the Web pages. Here is a description of the Web page from top to bottom.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Web Page Area</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| Links | These links will appear at the top of every page.
• Select Cart to display your shopping cart, which will list any course sections you may have chosen.
• Select Help to display information about the current Web page. After you log in:
• The Log Out link will also be displayed at the top of every page.
• If your school is also running the PowerCampus Portal, a link to the Portal will also be displayed at the top of every page. |
| Search | You can search for Course Sections that are available for a specified year, term, and session, or search for courses in the Catalog.
1. Specify what you want to search, courses in the Catalog or Course Sections.
2. You have the option to enter a keyword for the course (Art, for example).
   • If you enter a keyword, the system will list ALL courses with the specified keyword.
   • If you do not enter a keyword, the system will prompt you to enter more information to narrow your search.
3. Select Search. After you log in, you may also be able to search for information about people who are listed in the alumni, faculty, staff, and student Directories. When you search for a name, the system will list all the people with the specified name who are listed in each of the directories for which you have access. |
| Tabs | Select the tab that corresponds to the function you want to perform. For example, if you wanted to register for courses, you would choose the Register tab. |
| Menu Items | Once you select a tab, the corresponding list of menu items will appear under the tabs. |
| Options | Once you select a menu item, the corresponding options for that menu item will appear along the left pane, and the associated Web page will appear to the right. |

Once faculty members log in, they can access information that applies to them. For example, they can view and update their course information, enter students' grades, create and modify their Course Home Pages, and so on.

Setting up Your Courses

Your course needs to be set up before you can enter students’ grades for the course. If your Department Head has not already defined the course activities for your course, you need to set the Activities, Weighting, and Grade Mappings. You can also set up a Course Home Page for your course.

Once you have an understanding about Weighting Your Course Activities, you can begin assigning course activities by:
  • Adding an Activity for Your Course, or
  • Copying All Activities from One of Your Other Courses                                                                                     |
| Weighting            | Specify how the grades for the course activities will be weighted when calculating the midterm and final grades. You have these options:
  • You can weight individual activities (for example, weighting quiz 3 heavier than quiz 1)
  • You can weight types of activities (for example, weighting exams heavier than quizzes)
  • For each Activity Type (for example, essays, tests, quizzes, projects), you can drop the lowest and highest grades for activities of that type.
  Refer to Weighting Your Course Activities.                                                                                                  |

  • List scheduled dates when the class meets and when activities are due.
  • Enable students to download media files they need for the course.
  • Let students download media files they need for completing course activities.
  • Allow students to submit their completed course activities.
  Refer to Creating a Home Page for Your Course.*                                                                                                                                                                    |
Defining Activities for Your Course

Do you want to use grades for course activities to help determine your students' overall grades for a course? If you do, then you or your department head need to detail information about the Activities planned for the course (for example, essay 1, essay 2, test 1, test).

If your department head has already defined activities for your course, you should review them. If your department head has specified due dates for entering students’ activity grades, you will NOT be able to make changes to the course activities.

BEFORE you start entering information about the Activities for a course, you need to understand the basics about Weighting Your Course Activities. Once you understand how weighting activities affects the calculation of students’ overall grades, you will be ready to specify information about the activities for a course.

• Adding an Activity for Your Course
• Copying All Activities from One of Your Other Courses
• Managing Activity Media for Your Course

Weighting Your Course Activities

By weighting your course activities, you answer the following questions.

1. How Many Points is Each Activity Worth?
2. Should the Score for One Activity Count More Than Others?
3. Should Scores for one Activity Type Count More Than Others?

Once you understand the different weighting methods, you should see How Weights Are Entered on the Course Setup Page.

How Many Points is Each Activity Worth?

The first step in setting up activity grading is to determine how each individual activity is to be scored on its own. Each activity is assigned a number of Possible Points, which is the maximum score a student can earn for that activity.

Here are some examples for setting Possible Points for an activity.

• An essay graded on a scale of 0-4 points would have a Possible Points value of 4.

• For a 20-question multiple-choice quiz, you would set the Possible Points based on the point value of each question. For example:
  • Set the Possible Points to 20 if each question was worth 1 point, or
  • Set the Possible Points to 100 if each question was worth 5 points
• For percentage-based scores, the Possible Points is set to 100.

Now, answer the next question: Should the Score for One Activity Count More Than Others?

Should the Score for One Activity Count More Than Others?

Now you see how your assignment of Possible Points for each activity allows the system to calculate students’ scores for each activity. To determine students’ overall course grades, you must specify how the scores for the individual activities are to be combined into a total score for the course.

The Activity Weighting Methods allow you to indicate how much each activity contributes to the total score for the course.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Activity Weighting Method</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>By Possible Points</td>
<td>You can use the Possible Points for each activity to not only provide a scale for grading that individual activity, but also to indicate how much that activity contributes to the course grade as compared to other activities for the course. For example, if Quiz 2 is twice as important as Quiz 1, the instructor makes the possible points for Quiz 2 twice as high as Quiz 1. If all of the activities in the course follow this rule, the instructor should use the By Possible Points weighting method.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Enter for Each Activity</td>
<td>We have already talked about how the number of Possible Points you assign to activities can indicate how much more important one activity is in determining students’ overall grades. If the Possible Points are not enough to indicate how much more important the score for one activity is than the score for other activities, you should also Enter weights for Each Activity.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Equally</td>
<td>You may want all the course activities to contribute Equally to the course grade, regardless of their Possible Points. You could select the Enter for each Activity weighting method and assign the same weight to each activity, but it would be easier to just choose to weight them Equally.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Now, answer the next question: Should Scores for one Activity Type Count More Than Others?
Should Scores for one Activity Type Count More Than Others?

You may only need to set the Possible Points for each activity and the Activity Weighting Method for grading the activities for your course. You may, however, want to enforce an additional set of weights based on the type of activity.

For example, you may use three types of activities for your course, Homework, Quizzes, and Exams. You may want the scores for Exams to count for 50% of the overall grade, and the scores for Homework and Quizzes at 25% each. While it may be possible for you to use the Activity Weighting Methods to set the weighting for the activities so that the overall grades are calculated accordingly, it will not always be easy. As activities of one type are added or their weights are adjusted, you would need to adjust the weighting of activities of the other types in order to maintain the desired balance. In this case, you should choose to Weight by Type of Activity, so the system automatically adjusts the other activity types.

When enabled, the Weight by Type of Activity option allows you to define a relative weight for each type of course activity. The weights can be based on percentages (e.g., Homework=25, Quizzes=25, Exams=50) or simple multipliers (e.g., Homework=1, Quizzes=1, Exams=2).

Note: Even when weighting by activity type, the Activity Weighting Methods defined above are still used to determine the contribution of the individual activities. The only difference is that the contribution is relative to other activities of the same type rather than to all other activities in the course.

Now that you understand weighting, you are ready to see How Weights Are Entered on the Course Setup Page.
How Weights Are Entered on the Course Setup Page

Now that we’ve discussed the basics about the different weighting methods you can use to indicate the importance of some activities over others in determining students’ overall grades, let’s look at how activity weights are entered on the course Setup page. You must specify how course activities are to be weighted when calculating students’ midterm and final grades.

1. Specify whether you want to Weight the activities by the Activity Type. Select this option (A) if you have assigned several types of activities for a course and you want to weight one type of activity (for example, Exams) heavier than another (for example Essays).

   If you choose to Weight the activities by the Activity Type, then for each Activity Type, specify the Weight for the activities when calculating the Midterm and Final grades (B).

   You can use any set of numbers to define the weight differences between Activity Types. For example, to weight the activities of one activity type (for example, Tests) twice as heavy as the activities of another activity type (for example, Homework), you could assign the Homework activity type with a weight of 1 and the Tests activity type with a weight of 2. You could also set the weights for these activity types at 25 and 50, 5 and 10, 50 and 100, and so on.
2. Specify How you want to Weight Activities for the course (C).

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Weight Activities</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>By Possible Points</td>
<td>The more points an activity is worth, the more weight it will have in calculating midterm and final grades. For example, if Test 3 is worth 200 possible points and Test 1 is worth 100 possible points, Test 3 will have twice as much weight in calculating the students’ midterm and final grades.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Equally</td>
<td>The scores for all the course activities will be counted the same when calculating the midterm and final grades for the course.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Enter for Each Activity</td>
<td>You can specify the weight for individual course activities. For example, Quiz 3 can have more weight in calculating the students’ midterm and final grades than Quiz 1.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

3. Review the calculated weight (G) for each activity.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Midterm Weight</th>
<th>Final Weight</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>50 50.00%</td>
<td>25 16.67%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>0 0.00%</td>
<td>50 33.33%</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Each time you change the weight for an Activity Type (B) or an Activity (C), the system will re-calculate how the activity scores will count toward the Midterm and Final grades. This depends on how you have chosen to weight the activities.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>

</tr>
<tr>
<td>By Possible Points, or</td>
<td>The system will calculate how much the activity Counts Toward the Midterm grade and Final grade.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Equally</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

4. For each Activity Type, specify if the lowest and highest scores for activities of that Activity Type should be dropped when calculating the students’ Midterm and Final grades (F). Scores for Extra Credit activities cannot be dropped.

5. Select Save to record the information for the course section.
Adding an Activity for Your Course

If your department head has not already set up the activities for your course, you will need to enter information about each of the activities (for example, exams, essays, projects) that will be used to grade students in the course. If your department head has set due dates for entering activity grades for your course, you will not be able to add any course activities.

1. Select the Classes tab.
2. Select the Setup menu item.
3. Select the Activities option.
4. From the list of years, terms, and sessions, select the course section.

5. If you have not done so already, specify How you want to Weight Activities for the course.
   - Select an option:

Copying All Activities from One of Your Other Courses

If your department head has not already set up the activities for your course, you will need to enter information about each of the activities (for example, exams, essays, projects) that will be used to grade students in the course.

- A quick way to set up the activities for a new course section is to copy the activities (along with ALL the section and activity media) from another course section.
- If you copy all the activities to a course section which already has activities, its activities and media will be overwritten.

If your department head has set due dates for entering activity grades for your course, you will not be able to copy the activities from another course.

1. Select the Classes tab.

Approving Grades for Department Courses

Grades must be approved by school administrators (for example, Registrar, Dean) or department heads, and submitted to PowerCampus. Department heads may approve the grades for those course sections which have been assigned to their departments. From the Department tab, department heads can choose the following options.

- Approve Grades for the course sections which still need their approval. Approving Students’ Grades for a Course.
- Set Up Approvals to select the course sections for which they want to approve students’ grades. Setting up Grade Approvals.

If you are a department head and cannot use either of these options to approve grades for your department’s course sections, contact an administrator. You will need to be set up in PowerCampus Self-Service as a department head for the correct department.

Approving Students’ Grades for a Course

Department heads can approve the grades for those course sections for which they have chosen to approve students’ grades. Grades can only be approved for time periods which are open for grading.

1. Select the Department tab.
2. Select the Approve Grades menu item.
3. Select the Year for which you want to approve students’ grades.
4. Select the Course section for which you want to approve grades.

Using Templates for Department Courses

There are a couple of ways in which department heads can define the activities that are to be used to grade courses being offered by their departments.

- A department head can set the course activities for a department course. Refer to the instructions for Defining Activities for a Department Course.

- A department head can set up a template which can be assigned to one or more department courses. After a department head assigns a template to a course, the faculty member who is teaching the course will be able to review the activities. If the faculty member agrees with the activities, the faculty member will only need to enter students’ grades for the course activities. If not, the faculty member can make any necessary changes to the list of activities for the course unless the department head has specified due dates for entering grades for the course activities.

After a department head creates a template, he or she can choose to share the template with other department heads. Department heads will be able to view and assign any templates that they have created, and any templates that are being shared with them.

Setting up a Course Template

If you want to use grades for course activities to help determine students' overall grades for a course section, you can detail information about the activities for the course section (for example, essay 1, essay 2, test 1, test 2).

Creating a New Course Template

Departments heads can create templates which list the activities to be used to calculate students' course grades.

1. Select the Department tab.
2. Select the Course Templates menu item.
3. Select the Year for which you want to create a new template.
4. For the Term and Session for which you want to create a new template, select Add Template.
5. Specify a unique Template Name for the new course template.
6. Select Save to create your new template.
7. BEFORE you choose how to Weight course activities and begin adding activities to your new template, please read the instructions about Weighting Activities on a Template.
8. Set up the activities on your course template. You can start by adding individual activities or copying all the activities and settings from an existing template.

10. Select Change to apply your settings to the template.

11. Review your template and make any necessary changes to the list of activities and settings.

12. If you have chosen to Set Due Dates for Grades, specify the dates by which faculty must enter students’ grades By Activity Type or By Activity.
Select Save to record the changes to your template.

Weighting Activities on a Template

By weighting the activities on a template, you answer the following questions.

1. How Many Points is Each Activity Worth?

2. Should the Score for One Activity Count More Than Others?

3. Should Scores for one Activity Type Count More Than Others?

Once you understand the different weighting methods, you should see How Weights Are Entered on a Template.

How Many Points is Each Activity Worth?

The first step in setting up activity grading is to determine how each individual activity is to be scored on its own. Each activity is assigned a number of Possible Points, which is the maximum score a student can earn for that activity.

Here are some examples for setting Possible Points for an activity.

- An essay graded on a scale of 0-4 points would have a Possible Points value of 4.
- For a 20-question multiple-choice quiz, you would set the Possible Points based on the point value of each question. For example:
  - Set the Possible Points to 20 if each question was worth 1 point, or
  - Set the Possible Points to 100 if each question was worth 5 points
- For percentage-based scores, the Possible Points is set to 100.

Now, answer the next question: Should the Score for One Activity Count More Than Others?

Should the Score for One Activity Count More Than Others?

Now you see how your assignment of Possible Points for each activity allows the system to calculate students' scores for each activity. To determine students' overall course grades, you must specify how the scores for the individual activities are to be combined into a total score for the course.
The Activity Weighting Methods allow you to indicate how much each activity contributes to the total score for the course.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Activity Weighting Method</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>By Possible Points</td>
<td>You can use the Possible Points for each activity to not only provide a scale for grading that individual activity, but also to indicate how much that activity contributes to the course grade as compared to other activities for the course. For example, if Quiz 2 is twice as important as Quiz 1, the instructor makes the possible points for Quiz 2 twice as high as Quiz 1. If all of the activities in the course follow this rule, the instructor should use the By Possible Points weighting method.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Enter for Each Activity</td>
<td>We have already talked about how the number of Possible Points you assign to activities can indicate how much more important one activity is in determining students' overall grades.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>If the Possible Points are not enough to indicate how much more important the score for one activity is than the score for other activities, you should also enter weights for each activity.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Equally</td>
<td>You may want all the course activities to contribute Equally to the course grade, regardless of their Possible Points. You could select the Enter for each Activity weighting method and assign the same weight to each activity, but it would be easier to just choose to weight them Equally.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Now, answer the next question: Should Scores for one Activity Type Count More Than Others?

Should Scores for one Activity Type Count More Than Others?

You may only need to set the Possible Points for each activity and the Activity Weighting Method for grading the activities for your course. You may, however, want to enforce an additional set of weights based on the type of activity.

For example, you may use three types of activities for your course, Homework, Quizzes, and Exams. You may want the scores for Exams to count for 50% of the overall grade, and the scores for Homework and Quizzes at 25% each. While it may be possible for you to use the Activity Weighting Methods to set the weighting for the activities so that the overall grades are calculated accordingly, it will not always be easy. As activities of one type are added or their weights are adjusted, you would need to adjust the weighting of activities of the other types in order to maintain the desired balance. In this case, you should choose to weight by Type of Activity, so the system automatically adjusts the other activity types.
When enabled, the Weight by Type of Activity option allows you to define a relative weight for each type of course activity. The weights can be based on percentages (e.g., Homework=25, Quizzes=25, Exams=50) or simple multipliers (e.g., Homework=1, Quizzes=1, Exams=2).

Note: Even when weighting by activity type, the Activity Weighting Methods defined above are still used to determine the contribution of the individual activities. The only difference is that the contribution is relative to other activities of the same type rather than to all other activities in the course.

Now that you understand weighting, you are ready to see How Weights Are Entered on the Activities Page.

How Weights Are Entered on a Template

Now that we’ve discussed the basics about the different weighting methods you can use to indicate the importance of some activities over others in determining students’ overall grades, let’s look at how activity weights are entered on the Course Templates page. You must specify how course activities are to be weighted when calculating students’ midterm and final grades.

1. Specify whether you want to Weight the activities by the Activity Type. Select this option (A) if you have assigned several types of activities for a course and you want to weight one type of activity (for example, Exams) heavier than another (for example Essays).

If you choose to Weight the activities by the Activity Type, then for each Activity Type, specify the Weight for the activities when calculating the Midterm and Final grades (B).
You can use any set of numbers to define the weight differences between Activity Types. For example, to weight the activities of one activity type (for example, Tests) twice as heavy as the activities of another activity type (for example, Homework), you could assign the Homework activity type with a weight of 1 and the Tests activity type with a weight of 2. You could also set the weights for these activity types at 25 and 50, 5 and 10, 50 and 100, and so on.

2. Specify How you want to Weight Activities (C).

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Weight Activities</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>By Possible Points</td>
<td>The more points an activity is worth, the more weight it will have in calculating midterm and final grades. For example, if Test 3 is worth 200 possible points and Test 1 is worth 100 possible points, Test 3 will have twice as much weight in calculating the students’ midterm and final grades.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Equally</td>
<td>The scores for all the course activities will be counted the same when calculating the midterm and final grades for the course.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Enter for Each Activity</td>
<td>You can specify the weight for individual course activities. For example, Quiz 3 can have more weight in calculating the students’ midterm and final grades than Quiz 1.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

3. Review the calculated weight (G) for each activity.

Each time you change the weight for an Activity Type (B) or an Activity (C), the system will re-calculate how the activity scores will count toward the Midterm and Final grades. This depends on how you have chosen to weight the activities.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Weighting</th>

</tr>
<tr>
<td>By Possible Points, or</td>
<td>The system will calculate how much the activity Counts Toward the Midterm grade and Final grade.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Equally</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

4. For each Activity Type, specify if the lowest and highest scores for activities of that Activity Type should be dropped when calculating the students’ Midterm and Final grades (F). Scores for Extra Credit activities cannot be dropped.
5. Select Save to record the information for the template.

Adding an Activity on a Template

You will need to enter information about each of the activities (for example, exams, essays, projects) that will be used to grade students in a course. To add a course activity, follow these steps.

1. Select the Department tab.

Defining Activities for a Department Course

If you want to use grades for course activities to help determine students’ overall grades for a course section, you must detail information about the activities for the course section (for example, essay 1, essay 2, test 1, test 2). There are a couple of ways in which department heads can define the activities that are to be used to grade courses being offered by their departments.

- A department head can set the course activities for a department course, as detailed in this section.

- A department head can set up a template which can be assigned to one or more department courses. Refer to the instructions for Using Templates for Department Courses.

BEFORE you start entering information about the Activities for a course, you need to understand the basics about Weighting Activities for a Department Course.

Once you understand how weighting activities affects the calculation of students’ overall grades, you will be ready to specify information about the activities for a course.

- Adding an Activity for a Department Course
- Copying All Activities from Another Course
- Weighting Activities for a Department Course
- Managing Activity Media for a Department Course

---

Weighting Activities for a Department Course

By weighting the activities for a department course, you answer the following questions.

1. How Many Points is Each Activity Worth?

2. Should the Score for One Activity Count More Than Others?

3. Should Scores for one Activity Type Count More Than Others?

Once you understand the different weighting methods, you should see How Weights Are Entered on the Activities Page.
How Many Points is Each Activity Worth?

The first step in setting up activity grading is to determine how each individual activity is to be scored on its own. Each activity is assigned a number of Possible Points, which is the maximum score a student can earn for that activity.

Here are some examples for setting Possible Points for an activity.

- An essay graded on a scale of 0-4 points would have a Possible Points value of 4.
- For a 20-question multiple-choice quiz, you would set the Possible Points based on the point value of each question. For example:
  - Set the Possible Points to 20 if each question was worth 1 point, or
  - Set the Possible Points to 100 if each question was worth 5 points
- For percentage-based scores, the Possible Points is set to 100.

Now, answer the next question: Should the Score for One Activity Count More Than Others?

Should the Score for One Activity Count More Than Others?

Now you see how your assignment of Possible Points for each activity allows the system to calculate students’ scores for each activity. To determine students’ overall course grades, you must specify how the scores for the individual activities are to be combined into a total score for the course.

The Activity Weighting Methods allow you to indicate how much each activity contributes to the total score for the course.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Activity Weighting Method</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>By Possible Points</td>
<td>You can use the Possible Points for each activity to not only provide a scale for grading that individual activity, but also to indicate how much that activity contributes to the course grade as compared to other activities for the course. For example, if Quiz 2 is twice as important as Quiz 1, the instructor makes the possible points for Quiz 2 twice as high as Quiz 1. If all of the activities in the course follow this rule, the instructor should use the By Possible Points weighting method.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Enter for Each Activity</td>
<td>We have already talked about how the number of Possible Points you assign to activities can indicate how much more important one activity is in determining students’ overall grades. If the Possible Points are not enough to indicate how much more important the score for one activity is than the score for other activities, you should also Enter weights for Each Activity.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Now, answer the next question: Should Scores for one Activity Type Count More Than Others?

Should Scores for one Activity Type Count More Than Others?

You may only need to set the Possible Points for each activity and the Activity Weighting Method for grading the activities for your course. You may, however, want to enforce an additional set of weights based on the type of activity.

For example, you may use three types of activities for your course, Homework, Quizzes, and Exams. You may want the scores for Exams to count for 50% of the overall grade, and the scores for Homework and Quizzes at 25% each. While it may be possible for you to use the Activity Weighting Methods to set the weighting for the activities so that the overall grades are calculated accordingly, it will not always be easy. As activities of one type are added or their weights are adjusted, you would need to adjust the weighting of activities of the other types in order to maintain the desired balance. In this case, you should choose to Weight by Type of Activity, so the system automatically adjusts the other activity types.

When enabled, the Weight by Type of Activity option allows you to define a relative weight for each type of course activity. The weights can be based on percentages (e.g., Homework=25, Quizzes=25, Exams=50) or simple multipliers (e.g., Homework=1, Quizzes=1, Exams=2).

Note: Even when weighting by activity type, the Activity Weighting Methods defined above are still used to determine the contribution of the individual activities. The only difference is that the contribution is relative to other activities of the same type rather than to all other activities in the course.

Now that you understand weighting, you are ready to see How Weights Are Entered on the Activities Page.
How Weights Are Entered on the Activities Page

Now that we’ve discussed the basics about the different weighting methods you can use to indicate the importance of some activities over others in determining students’ overall grades, let’s look at how activity weights are entered on the course Activities page. You must specify how course activities are to be weighted when calculating students’ midterm and final grades.

1. Specify whether you want to Weight the activities by the Activity Type. Select this option (A) if you have assigned several types of activities for a course and you want to weight one type of activity (for example, Exams) heavier than another (for example Essays).

   If you choose to Weight the activities by the Activity Type, then for each Activity Type, specify the Weight for the activities when calculating the Midterm and Final grades (B).

   You can use any set of numbers to define the weight differences between Activity Types. For example, to weight the activities of one activity type (for example, Tests) twice as heavy as the activities of another activity type (for example, Homework), you could assign the Homework activity type with a weight of 1 and the Tests activity type with a weight of 2. You could also set the weights for these activity types at 25 and 50, 5 and 10, 50 and 100, and so on.
2. Specify How you want to Weight Activities for the course (C).

<table>
<thead>
<tr>

<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>By Possible Points</td>
<td>The more points an activity is worth, the more weight it will have in calculating midterm and final grades. For example, if Test 3 is worth 200 possible points and Test 1 is worth 100 possible points, Test 3 will have twice as much weight in calculating the students’ midterm and final grades.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Equally</td>
<td>The scores for all the course activities will be counted the same when calculating the midterm and final grades for the course.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Enter for Each Activity</td>
<td>You can specify the weight for individual course activities. For example, Quiz 3 can have more weight in calculating the students’ midterm and final grades than Quiz 1.</td>

3. Review the calculated weight (G) for each activity.

<th>Final Weight</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>50</td>
<td>25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>0</td>
<td>50</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Each time you change the weight for an Activity Type (B) or an Activity (C), the system will re-calculate how the activity scores will count toward the Midterm and Final grades. This depends on how you have chosen to weight the activities.

</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

4. For each Activity Type, specify if the lowest and highest scores for activities of that Activity Type should be dropped when calculating the students’ Midterm and Final grades (F). Scores for Extra Credit activities cannot be dropped.

5. Select Save to record the information for the course section.

Copying All Activities from Another Course

You will need to enter information about each of the activities (for example, exams, essays, projects) that will be used to grade students in the course. A quick way to set up the activities for a new course section is to copy the activities (along with ALL the section and activity media) from another course section.

Note: If you copy all the activities to a course section which already has activities, its activities and media will be overwritten.

1. Select the Department tab.
2. Select the Manage Courses menu item.
3. Select the department, year, or faculty member for the course.
4. Select the course section for which you want to copy activities from another course section.

9. On the Copy Activities window, review the list of activities for the selected course section.

10. If these are the activities you want to copy to your course section, select Finish. Any activities that may already have been defined for the course section will be replaced during the copy process.

11. On the Copy Activities - Success window, select Close Window.

12. Review the list of copied activities.

Managing Activity Media for a Department Course

For any activity you have assigned for a course section, you may have documents that your students need in order to complete the activity. If you have created a Course Home Page for the course section, you can make these documents available on your Course Home Page so your students can download them.

- Following the Rules for Naming Files
- Uploading Files for a Course Activity to a Course Home Page
Following the Rules for Naming Files

You MUST make sure that your file follows the Microsoft SharePoint Services rules for naming files before you can upload the file to a Course Home Page.

- You CANNOT use any of the following characters anywhere in a file name:
  ~ # % & *
  { } \ : ?
  / < > |

- You CANNOT use a period consecutively in the middle of a file name (for example, My..File).

- You CANNOT BEGIN or END a file name with a period.

- You CANNOT END a file name with:
  __archivos __dosyalar __fichiers __fitxers

   - Your students will be able to access the files in each activity folder in the Course Documents document library, when you make them available.

16. Verify that the document has been uploaded for the activity.

17. After your specified deadline for submitting course activity media, review your students’ submissions in the corresponding activity folder in the Submitted Documents document library.
   - When students submit their completed course activities on-line (upload their activity files to the Course Home Page), their files will be stored in their submitted media subfolder for that activity.
   - You, and any other faculty members who are teaching the course section, can access ALL the submitted media.
   - Each student will only be able to view his or her own media submissions. If a student submits an updated file, it will overwrite the student’s previous submission.

- Students can view information about their course section (including announcements and important dates), download course documents, and submit their course activities.

Depending on the current status of the Course Home Page site for a specified course section, different options will be available.

   • Grant you, and any other faculty members who are scheduled to teach the course section, permission to view and update the site.

   • Grant permission to view and update the site to any users who have been asked to be faculty assistants for the course section.

   • If your school allows department heads to access Course Home Pages, the system will grant access to the heads of the department which offers the course section.
